In Flanders Fields The Appeal

Lieut. Col. John McCrea.

In Flanders fields the poppies grow
Between the crosses row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still, bravely singing fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, but now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to lift it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, tho poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

The Promise

Charles B. Galbreath.

In Flanders fields the cannon boom
And fitful flashes light the gloom,
While up above, like eagles, fly
The fierce destroyers of the sky;
With stains the earth wherein you lie
Is redder than the poppy bloom,
In Flanders fields.

Sleep on ye brave. The shiekling
shell,
The quaking trench, the startled yell
The fury of the battle hell
Shall wake you not, for all is well.
Sleep peacefully, for all is well.

Your flaming torch aloft we bear,
With burning heart an oath we swear
To keep the faith, to fight it thru,
To crush the foe or sleep with you
In Flanders fields.

SLATE AND ROCK IN COAL

Pinchot Orders State Mine Chief to Proceed Against Operators.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 10.—Refusal of the policy committee of the anthracite coal operators to accede to Governor Pinchot's demands to "clean its own house of the abuses which are known to exist," led the executive to issue instructions to Secretary of Mines Joseph J. Walsh to take immediate steps to enforce the laws relating to excessive slate and rock in coal sold to consumers. "I am told that about 20 per cent of the coal shipped contains an unfair proportion of rock and slate," the governor wrote Chief Walsh. "If so its sale to the public is a rank imposition."

The conference with the anthracite operators was the final of a series which Governor Pinchot has held recently to get the operators to agree to a program that would bring about a reduction in the price of coal.

Zangwill Continues to Criticize.
New York, Nov. 10.—America is in the stage of her growth when she needs brickbats much more than bouquets, according to Israel Zangwill, the celebrated English novelist and playwright, who has industriously engaged in handing America the British raspberry for the last several days. "After all," he said, "I am not a diplomat, but an author, and it is an author's business to tell the truth. The truth about America is good and bad, of course, but my time here is short and I intend to devote it wholly to criticism."

COOLIDGE SEEKS ADVICE

On Legislative Program He Will Recommend to Congress.

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Coolidge is asking the advice of all Republican members of the senate and of the Republican leaders in the house on the general legislation program he will recommend to congress when it is convened in December. The president's message, which is scheduled to be delivered Tuesday, Dec. 4, the day after the opening session, if the possible fight over organization in both houses does not result in a tieup, is awaited probably with more interest than any similar document since the war. In the stand Mr. Coolidge will be forced to take on pressing international and domestic issues, he may make or break himself so far as the presidential nomination is concerned. His attitude on these questions is expected to supply the issues that will bring a number of opponents for the nomination into the field.

Eleven men were injured, seven dangerously, in an explosion at the plant of the Fisher Body corporation, Detroit.

MRS. PAUL LESSINOFF

Wife of First Secretary of Bulgarian Legation, Washington.

Student Missing.

Delaware, O., Nov. 10.—A country-wide search for John Nevill Blair, 16-year-old Ohio Wesleyan freshman, strangely missing since Nov. 1, was launched here following the arrival from Oklahoma City of the young man's father, Frank T. Blair, real estate man of that city. Blair had $40 with him when he disappeared.

HERE AND THERE

Four armed payroll bandits were foiled by a paymaster for the Ford Motor company at Detroit when he leaped for his automobile and threw a bag containing $25,000 on a passing railroad locomotive.

At Memphis, Tenn., Mayor Rowlett Paine and four city commissioners, who were re-elected, publicly opposed the Klan.

Kansas City federal reserve bank checked a run on the Fourth National bank at Wichita, Kan.

Five men were killed instantly and four badly scalded when a boiler of the Jamaica Fruit Shipping company's chartered steamer, Princess May, exploded off Kingston, Jamaica.

TO FIGHT BALDWIN PROTECTIVE POLICY

Lloyd George Says at London, He's in Fighting Trim.

London, Nov. 10.—Great crowds at Southampton and London greeted David Lloyd George on his return from America.

The former premier declared he was in fighting trim and forthwith announced that he would fight Premier Baldwin's protectionist policy and come out as a protagonist of free trade. He also made the important statement that he would serve under Asquith if the Liberals are returned to power at the next election.

Lloyd George declared himself immensely struck by the absence of military posts along the Canadian border, "a marvelous object lesson in what two nations can do if they allow good feeling, neighborliness and common sense to dominate their relations instead of anger, suspicion, envy, hatred and revenge." "That is what the British empire and the United States are going to teach the world," he said. "The resources of the two great commonwealths are infinite." He described America as a "great country of infinite abundance, with a virile, determined, resourceful population of great hearted people, worthy to occupy the land that yields more freely to the hand of man than any other country in the world."

POLICY UNCHANGED

Debts Owed America by Foreign Nations Must Be Paid.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The policy of the United States with reference to debts owed by foreign nations remains unchanged despite developments growing out of the Hughes-Curzon inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay. This was made plain in behalf of President Coolidge at the white house. The president feels that congress has made clear the American policy by establishing the world war foreign debt commission and laying down the procedure to be followed by debtor nations in settling their obligations.

Reserve Fund, Held Taxable.

Cincinnati, Nov. 10.—The $159,620 listed as reserve by the Union Central Life Insurance company, Cincinnati, was held to be a debit item and taxable, in a ruling by Charles E. Bell, county prosecutor.

WALTON ACCUSED

Political Favorites Maintained on Good Jobs, Witnesses Say.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 10.—Testimony relating to alleged expenditures of state money for the maintenance of political favorites on good jobs featured the impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton.

One of the witnesses, superintendent of a negro orphan's home, testified that the governor had directed him to place two Oklahoma City negro barbers on his staff as "body agents" at $125 per month, although the superintendent protested he had no funds to the credit of the institution and needed no help. Delinquency warrants were drawn to pay their salary, it was said.

Other testimony tended to show that scores of men had been put on state payrolls at Walton's express command, although there was nothing for them to do.

Found Guilty in Liquor Plot.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 10.—Albert Eick of Martins Ferry, O., head of the Belmont Products company, and S. K. Johnson, former Wheeling city treasurer, were found guilty by a jury in United States district court here on a charge of conspiracy to violate liquor laws. Harry Thornburg and John Haid of Martins Ferry were found not guilty. Ten men in all were indicted on a charge of bringing a car of alcohol to Wheeling from Tennessee.

Creates $60,000,000 Trust Fund.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 10.—The creation by Milton S. Hershey, the chocolate king, of a $60,000,000 trust fund for the Hershey Industrial school, which he founded in the town of Hershey, near here, gives to that school the greatest endowment of any institution of learning in the world. Announcement of this gift was brought to public attention a man and an organization hitherto little known.

To Probe Ohio Coal Rates.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The interstate commerce commission broadened the scope of its sweeping coal rate investigation to include bituminous and semi-bituminous coal and coke from points in Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Pennsylvania to New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Dec. 3 was set as the date for a hearing.

Judge Stoughton Dead.

Logan, O., Nov. 10.—John Stoughton, 54, former probate judge of Hocking county, died suddenly here following a heart attack. Stoughton was chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Hocking county and a former state prohibition officer.

GENERAL JOSEF HALLER

Commander of Polish Armies Now in the United States.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Coroner Probing Collision.

Ironton, O., Nov. 10.—A coroner's inquiry is under way in an effort to fix responsibility for the motor bus accident in Russell, Ky., just across the river from here, that cost the lives of three persons and caused serious injuries to three others. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lansing of Lexington, Ky., and W. H. Clay, who resided between Charleston and Huntington, W. Va., were instantly killed. The bus was struck by a Chesapeake and Ohio train.

Election Irregularities Alleged.

Columbus, Nov. 10.—A delegation from Frankfort, Ross county, that complained to Secretary of State Brown concerning alleged irregularities in last Tuesday's election, was told to take its complaint to the Ross county board of elections, and to ask the Ross county prosecutor to make an investigation. Following the county action, if anything irregular is disclosed, the state will take a hand, Secretary Brown said.

In Honor of Harding.

Ada, O., Nov. 10.—Ohio Northern university's new law building will be named in honor of the late President Harding. It was announced by President Smith.

MRS. STOKES WINS CASE

Jury Quickly Disposes of the Charge of Infidelity.

New York, Nov. 10.—The honor of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes has been vindicated after a five-year battle. A jury of her peers said "No" to the charges of infidelity brought against her by her millionaire husband. The jury was out an hour and seven minutes. As the issues in the case had been reduced to the one count of whether the defendant had been guilty of misconduct with Edgar T. Wallace in his apartment here, the jury's negative answer to that part of the interrogatory was the signal of defeat for the plaintiff. The jury took only one ballot.

Though the charges of misconduct against Mrs. Stokes have been disposed of, the courts are not yet through with the Stokes case. Isadore Shapiro of counsel for Mrs. Stokes announced that the separation action started by Mrs. Stokes against her husband was on the calendar in the special term of the supreme court for next Monday.

As she was preparing to leave the courtroom, Mrs. Stokes said that none but a mother's heart could know her joy and happiness. "A jury of American men," she said, "have looked into my heart and vindicated me of the charges brought against me by the man who in my trusting girlhood I believed would love and cherish me through life. But it is not for myself I cared. My happiness is for my children."

Fatal Explosion.

Wadsworth, O., Nov. 10.—One man was burned to death, two others probably were fatally injured, and two more burned seriously, as the result of an explosion in the superheating department of the boiler room of the Ohio Match company here. Mike Kazar, 40, was scalded to death. Donald Davison, 20, and William Brown, 40, are in a critical condition. The other two are expected to recover.

Hit by Automobile.

Cleveland, Nov. 10.—James B. Kerr, 60, of this city, is dead, the 146th traffic victim of the year. Kerr was hit by an auto. The driver of the machine, Arthur Kaufman of South Euclid, was held by police for investigation.

THE WEATHER.

Ohio—Sunday: Fair.

Candidate Dies.

Piqua, O., Nov. 10.—Edward Granger, 67, Democratic candidate for mayor of the city at the Tuesday election, died at his home here after a long illness. Granger, a leader in civil life of Piqua, was defeated at the polls by William G. Crozier, Republican.

At the close of one of our afternoon services, for women only, one of the so-called society leaders of the community approached the platform, with tears on her face, which she made no effort to conceal.

"I want you to pray for me," she said. "I have forgotten how to pray myself, I know, only that I need help, which no human hands can give me—that my broken life can only be mended by a power higher than that of men."

She looked at the workers in an anguish, whose sincerity could not be mistaken.

"I would like to tell you my story" she continued. "You have probably heard others like it before—of the mother who worshipped the things of the world for her children, above the blessing of God.

"It was not until I heard the words of the song, 'Sweeter as the Years Go By,' that I realized my life was doomed to be more and more bitter as time passes—because of my own sin and selfishness and because I put God in the background, and the world first.

"I married an ambitious man" she began, "whose only thought was to make a success that the world would applaud.

"He began to forge ahead in his profession, that of a lawyer and on my part I tried to arrange our domestic affairs to keep pace with him.

"Instead of instilling into my home and into my children the love of God before all other things, I made both my son and daughter as vain, in their youthful way, as I was.

"My daughter, I can see now, became fearfully self-conscious, and her only ambition in life was to show off her pretty frock to her companions and to be complimented on her style and good looks.

"My boy degenerated gradually into a prig, and I was actually proud of him, proud of his manners and the way in which he bowed whenever a lady entered the room.

"I thought his manners more important than his morals.

"And worse than all, I began to encourage my husband, who before this had been strictly temperate man, to have wine in his house for the benefit of his fashionable clients and even to serve it on our table.

"I might have known the result, had but I had dragged my husband, and my children with me. My husband had never taken a drink in his life until I told him that he ought to have wine for his guests and to drink with them.

"I ought to have known better than to encourage Edgar in thinking that money is everything worth living for. I ought to have known that no girl should be allowed the things in which I encouraged Florence. And my sin has found me out!"

There is not much comfort for the poor mother today. Friends are praying that her husband will find the strength of God which will stop him from drinking and for those two unfortunate children. For the son there is hope. The discipline of the prison and the influence of the chaplain there may prevail. But for the daughter—

It all began with the violation of the first commandment, when the mother put aside the one standard by which any life can be ruled, the rule of God.

First she worshipped ambition—then she worshipped "society," then it was money, more money and pleasure, until every other consideration in the world was laid aside, and nothing mattered except following the "fashions."

She said to the worker!—

"It makes me shudder, now, when I hear the girls, who used to be the friends of Florence, talking, laughing, smoking cigarets, drinking—and what they talk about and laugh over. It's the fashion for girls to smoke! It's the fashion for them to drink and to drink enough, sometimes, so that they are no longer mistresses of themselves.

"Oh, I can see, now that it is too late! A girl who still blushes is laughed at. No wonder my child fell. I encouraged her to develop nothing but worldly appetites, no one can know how I suffer—now!"

What she says is so true, so pathetically true!

It was the mother who had sinned first—and the fruits of her sin were visited on her thru those dearer to her than herself.

Her pathetic words as she finished her story, will never be forgotten by the sympathetic auditor, who heard them, and who tried to comfort the belated penitent.

"It wasn't until the words of that wonderful song penetrated my soul," she sobbed, "that I began to picture, almost for the first time, in all of its awful reality, my darkened home and saddened life, as the years go by.

"Instead of a peaceful, happy, contented home, worshipping God, we have a desolate house of bitter memories, serving the Lord in every way possible, we don't want to mention our children—and, when we do, it is with tears and blistering heart-aches.

"Instead of a husband, devoting his life to the kingdom, I have the bitter consciousness that my husband has become a drunkard, largely thru my own fault and blindness.

"I can see now that, in my mad pursuit of the idols of the world, I have missed completely that wonderful everlasting, all-satisfying peace of God which alone can make life sweeter as the years go by."

GOOD ADVICE.

All that Circleville needs to start an industrial revival is for its citizens to forget self and join hands in a whole hearted movement in bolstering up industry.

If each person will forget petty personal jealousy, stop knocking and begin to boost in an effective manner the city can easily double its population in five years at the same time doubling the value of every foot of property in the city. Boost, don't knock.

"KLAN ON THE ROCKS"

Words of Founder Simmons, Who
 Says He Will Form New Body.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10.—The Ku Klux
 Klan is on the rocks, William Joseph Simmons, founder and emperor of the organization, declared here.

Discussing events which split the klan into factions, one headed by himself and the other by Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans, culminating in the murder of W. S. Coburn, attorney for Simmons, by Phil E. Fox, publicity man for Evans, Simmons said:
 "The klan ship is on the rocks. The physical organization may be torn down. But the cause must live; the soul of the movement must not be killed."

Simmons revealed that he plans a new organization with a nucleus of his following among the klan membership. He estimated 70 per cent of the klan members supported him and said he would call a meeting to launch his new movement shortly.

Simmons declared Evans had usurped authority beyond his office.
 "We have been headed for the rocks
 since November, 1922," Simmons said. "The first split came over the organization of the Kamelja, the women of the klan, which Evans opposed.
 I have withdrawn the call for the Kamelja and that part of the organization has been pigeonholed indefinitely."

Traits of the Grizzly.

The grizzly rarely hibernates, preferring to prow the forests in the winter months. He is a meat eater, as well as being fond of honey, roots and eggs, and usually kills his own food. Two cubs come to the mother bear in her den among the rocks, and she is insanely courageous in defense of them.

Giving in Service.

"Every woman, and every man, for that matter, should do something to justify her or his existence. Unless a woman gives as much as she takes in service she is a liability, and not an asset to the community."—Dr.
 Esther Lovejoy.

Lake That Sharpens Razors.

One of the most curious lakes in the world is to be found in Ireland.

This lake has the power of petrifying any substance that may fall into it. Of course, the petrification is not absolute, but the substance is coated with a layer of stone, which is found dissolved in the lake, and the stone then hardens and forms a shell over the substance.

A well-known cutlery firm in England heard of this and sent a man over to inspect it. He selected several pieces of hardwood, which he sank with weights, and then marked the place with small buoys.

A fortnight later he returned and took up two pieces of the wood, which he found to be partly petrified. Two weeks after he drew up the other pieces, and found each piece to be as hard as flint.

The firm then made several experiments with the wood and found that at a certain stage of petrification an excellent razor hone could be manufactured from it.—London Tit-Bits.

A GOOD WORK

Fred C. Clark Member of Society to Locate "Missing Persons."

A nation wide organization for the humane purpose of locating and identifying "missing persons" identifying the unknown dead and locating the relatives and friends has been formed.

The bureau has grown very rapidly and its aim is to have an active member in every community in the United States.

G. H. Furbeck, vice president of the bureau has appointed Fred C. Clark of W. H. Albaugh Co., the local member for this community.

The local member will give information to anyone interested and will aid anyone (free of charge) in getting in touch with the bureau, if in need of its services.

Newspapers, churches, lodges, and benevolent societies all heartily endorse the purpose of the bureau and aid in this truly humanitarian work.

There is urgent need for just such an organization as many thousand persons become "missing" every year. Over 75,000 unidentified and unclaimed dead were buried in the "Potter's field" in the United States last year. The motto of this bureau is "For the Sake of Humanity."

The "master files" of the bureau—One, a list of the "missing" with all descriptions obtainable.

One, a list of unclaimed and unidentified dead, with descriptions and all information possible to aid identification.

We feel that Mr. Clark is to be commended for becoming a member of this bureau.

The work of this bureau and its wide spread membership can not but prove of inestimable service to many a sorrowing family.

LEGEND OF GOLD IN RHINE

Lorelei, Its Guardian, Dragged Down the Misers of Old to Their Doom.

According to the story, at the bottom of the Rhine was the vast Rhine-gold, a treasure of incalculable richness. It glistered beneath the waters and the Lorelei were its guardians. Those crabbed masculine souls who prized the beauty of gold above the beauty of charming women, who preferred gold in metal to the golden skins and golden hair of the Lorelei, were dragged down to their fate.

The hair of the Lorelei was said to be spun of impossible fine strands of the golden store and the gold of their lovely cheeks was supposed to be a powder made of the mass of gold at the bottom of the stream, beaten by pebbles.

But this gold the miserly did not see, and their punishment was to see the treasure below them on the clear bottom of the river and becoming crazed with the sight of it, to try to dip their hands in it and fall in, lamented by nobody.—Detroit News.

Over the Fence Is Out.

A Scottish farmer was noted for his strength and skill. A young peer, a great pugilistic amateur, had come from London to fight the athletic Scot. The latter was working in an inclosure a little distance from the house when the amateur arrived. His lordship tied his horse to a tree and addressed the farmer thus:

"Friend, I have heard a great deal about you and I have come a long way to see which of us is the better wrestler."

The Scotman, without answering, seized the young man by the middle of his body, pitched him over the fence and returned to his work. When his lordship recovered his breath he stood silent.

"Well," said the farmer, "have you anything more to say to me?"

"No," was the reply, "but perhaps you'll be so good as to throw me my horse!"—Edinburgh Scotsman.

"Ain't That the Truth?"

Francis was having a heart to heart talk with his grandmother. She was trying to impress upon him the importance of learning something every day. His reply was: "Take it from me, grandma, little boys know lots of things, and I don't know anything."

FRENCH TERMS ARE REJECTED

Collapse of Hughes Plan Admitted at White House.

POINCARÉ SCORES VICTORY

American Government Adhered to Its Original Position That Any Reparations Inquiry Involving Uncle Sam's Participation Must Be Broad and Inclusive—Position of President Coolidge Outlined.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The United States rejected the French restriction limiting the proposed Hughes-Curzon inquiry into Germany's ability to pay during the next six years.

The American government adheres to its original position that any inquiry involving American participation must be broad and inclusive.

These declarations of the American stand were made in President Coolidge's behalf at the white house after the cabinet meeting. They left no room for doubt.

The official declaration at the state department was outlined as follows:

The secretary of state has informed the French ambassador that in the opinion of our government the limitations proposed by France would frustrate the purposes of the suggested inquiry by an economic conference.

Any inquiry shackled by the restrictions demanded by Premier Poincaré, the president feels, would be useless and futile. There would be no use calling together the experts of four or five nations to determine Germany's present capacity to pay. That question, in the president's opinion, should be answered by any ordinary auditor.

With reference to the Poincaré restriction that the experts should not deal with Germany's capacity beyond 1930, the spokesman explained that there is no reason to expect that, within such a short time, Germany could re-establish industrial and productive activity.

The president's view was summarized officially in substance, as follows: Germany could hardly begin in such a short time to meet reparations to such an extent that it would be any use of inquiring into her capacity.

The white house declaration finally rejecting the Poincaré terms was made after strenuous efforts to prevent the formal burial of the Hughes-Curzon plan for American participation in the reparations controversy.

The collapse of the Hughes-Curzon scheme, forecast exclusively in these dispatches ten days ago, had been confessed in Washington with reluctance, and there was a tragic interest in the last obsequies.

The failure of Mr. Hughes and Lord Curzon to drive France into accepting their demand for a full inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay marks another victory for Premier Poincaré, who has never equivocated.

CAVE ARTISTS OF FRANCE

Student of Toulouse Makes Remarkable Discovery While Swimming in an Underground Stream.

A romantic discovery has just been made by a student of Toulouse university who swam along an underground stream for a mile with an electric torch in his hand, and found some bones believed to be at least 25,000 years old.

In the south of France and in Spain, and to a less extent elsewhere, drawings on bone, and modeling in clay, and painting on rocks have shown that 30,000 to 30,000 years ago men who lived in caves had the knack of representing, by a rude kind of art, the animals they knew.

They scratched on flat bones the outlines of reindeer, bison, mammoths and other animals, and painted them on the dry walls of caves; and it is interesting and important to know what other animals were roaming about Europe then, as it throws a light on the changes which have taken place in the climate.

The student of Toulouse university, Carteret by name, discovered what might be called the studio of an artist of the cave-dwelling period.

On the walls of the cave were rough drawings of animals, and around were models made in clay, some in the early stage of being shaped and others more fully formed.

Among the animals represented were lions, tigers, wolves and bears. This is the first time lions have been found among the animals known to the cave artists who once lived in France.

The animals of the prehistoric sculptor appear all to be wounded, and it is believed the hunters must have damaged the models before setting out on a hunting expedition, believing that in doing so they were rendering the real animals vulnerable to their weapons.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

HARTMAN THEATER

The first of the great metropolitan girl-and-music annuals to be seen in Columbus this season is the Greenwich Village Follies. The new fourth edition of this picturesque and refreshingly artistic revue will be on display at the Hartman theater Columbus for a single week starting Monday night, November 12. Last season it was conceded to be the revue hit of New York where it played for 32 weeks at the Shubert theater. For the past weeks it has been a soaring success at the Apollo theater, Chicago, and it comes to Columbus direct from that city in a special train of eight cars. Three of the Greenwich Village series have already exhibited in Columbus to enthusiastic audiences and this newest version is reputed to surpass all its predecessors in gaiety, wit, pictorial and melodic excellence.

The fine enthusiasm and youthful buoyancy which marks the deportment of the current "Follies" can be credited to the artistry and imaginative genius of its creator, John Murray Anderson. Anderson is said to have the best eye for color and grouping of any of our stage producers, a claim well substantiated in the present "Follies." A novelty constructed and adroitly schemed revue is this "Follies," with song, dance and japey interlaced in a happy and fleetly moving picture.

It burlesques Balleff and Chauve Souris, goes back to the days of Tony Pastor for a comic bout with the illustrated songs of that period ascends to high art in a reproduction of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and an interpretation of Oscar Wilde's "The Nightingale and the Rose," becomes precariously modern in a humorous sketch "Life Among the Advertisements," and all in all runs an amazingly long gamut of diversified entertainment.

Mr. Anderson has summoned an imposing list of players under his gay banner to compete in the "Follies." Prominent among them is Carl Randall, Karyl Norman, "The Creole Fashion Plate," Ula Sharon, George Rasely, John Sheehan, Dorothy Neville, Ethel Davis, Julia Silvers, Marjorie Peterson, George Christie, Louis and Frieda Berkoff, Fortunella and Cirillino, Clifton and DeRex and Chase and LaTour and the thirty famous artists' models.

The book of the "Follies" is by George V. Hobart, with contributions from George B. Kaufman and William K. Wells. The music is by Louis A. Hirsch and the lyrics by John Murray Anderson and Irving Caesar. Conspicuous among these last and well known are "Sixty Seconds Every Minute" and "Sweetheart Lane."

The Greenwich Village Follies is said to move with flawless pace and happy temp, flouting all the blueprints and traditions of the stage and providing ample recreation for the eye as well as regaling the ear.

Mail orders from out of town people will be given careful consideration if addressed to the Hartman boxoffice accompanied by check or money order.

AMUSEMENTS

If you feel thirty-eight years old, then you will look and act thirty-eight years old. This bit of logic is credited to Lois Wilson, motion picture actress. In her featured role in "Only 38," a William de Mille production for Paramount which also features May McAvoy, Elliott Dexter and George Fawcett and which comes to the Met theater next Monday for three days, Miss Wilson has to appear thirty-eight years of age. For the purpose she makes use of a remarkable makeup of sunken cheeks, gray hair, hopeless eyes and drooping shoulders with such additional touches that mark a woman of nearly two score years who has lost all hope of youth and romance. "I have to play a lot on the set between scenes to keep myself young," declares Miss Wilson. "The psychological effect is tremendous. Each night, when I reach home, I put on the youngest and most cheerful clothes I possess. Otherwise, I fear I would grow years older during the production of "Only 38." Elliott Dexter plays the role of a college professor who finds Miss Wilson young despite her thirty-eight years. The picture is a comedy of character and is said to be one of the best William de Mille productions to date.

SEEK REDUCTION OF FREIGHT RATES

La Follette and Adherents to Hold Conference Soon.

WILL BOOST THE NORRIS BILL

Senators and Representatives From the Northwest Would Establish Prices of the Principal Agricultural Products—Railroad Legislation to Center Around Rate Revision, Leaders Say.

Washington, Nov. 10.—A general conference of the LaFollette "progressive" bloc in congress to map out a definite legislative program will be held at some time between Nov. 20 and Dec. 1.

According to Senator Frazier of North Dakota, one of this group of the Republican side, the formal call will be issued by Senator LaFollette, who called the "progressive" conference held here last November.

The caucus will embrace Republicans, Democrats and Farmer-Labor members with leanings toward the principles advocated by LaFollette and his adherents. It will include several who did not participate in the conference last year, Frazier declared.

Among the Republicans he lists Senators Brookhart, Norris, Frazier, LaFollette, Howell, Ladd and Norbeck. Democrats include Senators Adams, Wheeler, Dill and possibly Mayfield. The two Farmer-Labor senators from Minnesota, Magnus Johnson and Shipstead, complete the senatorial list.

From the house there will be the entire Wisconsin Republican delegation of 10 members, with a number of single shooters from other states or the northwest. It is claimed there will be 30 to 50 house members included.

Agricultural and transportation legislation will receive major consideration. There will be a strong effort made to secure legislation to establish the prices of principal agricultural products, such as wheat, corn, cotton and live stock. Senator Frazier expects the caucus to get behind the Norris-Sinclair bill introduced in the last congress, or a similar measure.

Transportation legislation will center around rate revision, in Frazier's opinion. It will be insisted that freight rates on farm products must be reduced and that lower rates be provided on things the farmers must buy, particularly farm machinery. Senator LaFollette, it is known, will issue a public statement within a few days. This statement will be his first since his return from Europe.

PORCELAIN MADE FOR KINGS

Chinaware Was So Beautiful That It Was Never Exported, but Was Reserved for Emperors.

The Arabs mentioned porcelain factories and stores in their writings about 800 A. D. The Arabian geographer, Mohammed-el-Efridi, who lived in Seily at the court of Roger II, published, about 1154, a geographic work in which he told of the town of Djankow, where "Chinese glass" was made. He added that there was "no finer and more esteemed profession in Djankow than that of a potmaker or a pot designer." Toward the middle of the fourteenth century, Ibn Batuta, the Arabian traveler, described Chinese ceramic as the most beautiful in the world. The Chinese manufactured dishes and porcelain ware for a very long time. In the history of the great Chinese empire one reads that only certain towns and villages went in for porcelain industry. The finest chinaware was made in the province of Saxi. It was so beautiful and so much like the finest crystal that it never was exported, but was exclusively reserved for the use of the Chinese emperors.

Lady Nicotine's Star Part.

Why leave Lady Nicotine out of the dramatic personae of the modern drama, when she plays such an important role? She figures large in the action and situations of comedy and tragedy, of farce and melodrama. She is the silent herald of deep thought to be uttered, of an epigram to be delivered.

She gives away the villain in the manner in which she goes up in smoke from his sneering lips. She helps the comedian put across his "stuff." She fills in gaps in action and in lines. She labels the beautiful woman who holds a cigarette between her pink fingers or red lips as a vamp or an adventuress. The male trifter would be nothing without her help, and the bopper might be mistaken for a sensible girl.

Lady Nicotine identifies them all. In some plays she has the star part. Why not put her name in the cast?—Washington Post.

Thomas Rowland, 73, was shot and killed at Pittsburgh by an unidentified negro. The slayer then attacked 11-year-old Edith Colter, Rowland's granddaughter, and then shot her. Her condition is critical.

Some Block System.

A man traveling in a train that had made several abrupt stops and sudden jerks, became a bit anxious. There had been numerous accidents on the line of late, so he had been told, and there was cause for fear. Calling the porter aside, he said: "George, is this train safe?"

"Safe as any, suh."

"Is there a block system on the road?"

George's grin extended from ear to ear.

"Block system, suh? Why, boss, we has de greatest block system in de world. Ten miles back we was blocked by a load of hay, six miles back we was blocked by a cow, and I reckon when we gets farther south we'll be blocked by an alligator. Block system, suh? Well, I'll say it is!"—Country Gentleman.

That Was Different.

O'Halloran rushed up to a cottage, shouting: "Lend me a spade! Lend me a spade!"

"What for?" asked the owner of the cabin.

"To dig my friend out of the bog," replied O'Halloran. "He's just fallen in and he's up to his ankles!"

"Up to his ankles?" replied the other. "Then you don't need a spade. I'll lend you a rope."

"Begorra, but a rope's no good," replied the would-be rescuer. "He couldn't catch hold of it!"

"Why not?"

"For several reasons," replied O'Halloran; "but the chief one is that he went in head first."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

A bride and bridegroom in olden days used to be protected from the evil influence of warlocks and witches by using gray horses to pull the bridal carriage. They will be unfortunate if the engagement ring has contained either opals or emeralds.

TIMMONS GUILTY

Jury Returns Verdict for Rape Committed August 20.

The jury in the case of the State against Thurlow W. Timmons charged with committing a rape on Mary Wagner on the night of August 20, last, brought in a verdict of guilty. Both the prosecuting witness and the accused live in Columbus.

The jury had the case about one hour and thirty-five minutes. The state was represented by Prosecuting Attorney Meeker Terwilliger and the defendant by Barton Walters and I. F. Snyder. The members of the jury were: Scott Taylor, Elmer Hines, Charles Lemay, Stanley Glick, William Kuhlwein, Lewis Coon, M. M. Decker, George Gerhardt, Wallace Bockert, F. J. Ebert, C. V. Neal and Willard Evans. The foreman chosen was George Gerhardt.

The crime with which the prisoner was charged was committed in a grove near Darbyville, known as Scott Carpenter's woods.

A motion for a new trial will be filed.

Hotel Stenographer

BY ROE FULKERSON

"Seems like I never get no place," gloomed the House Detective.

"Kelly, replied the Hotel Stenographer, "it is funny, the number of people in the world who have never found out that all the setting in the world will never hatch a bad egg."

"Life is just full of ups and downs, Kelly, full of attempts to keep expenses down and keep appearances up. But you can do what you want to, if you only want to do it. A lot of other guys Kelly sit around and wish something would happen; they haven't got the guts to get out and make it happen."

"Benjamin Franklin said that if wishes were automobiles, everybody would have a filver."

"Now just look at me, Kelly. Nobody needs a better example of hustling than I am. I worked in the five-and-ten cent; then I was hat check girl here and instead of sitting around wishing I had a better job, I went to night school and learned to make pothooks and dashes. Now I take dictation from some of the snappiest drummers on the road. I knock out 35 to 50 bucks a week and I am right proud of myself."

"Any time you need a good example Kelly, you just stroll around and give me the up-and-down and I will try and drop a few words of encouragement your way, and tell you how good I am, and how worthless you are. Maybe some day you will get so mad you will get out and do something you are proud enough of to brag about it. So far, tho, Kelly, I can't see much prospect. You are a poor egg."

"Is that so?" snapped Kelly. "You may be smart, but not smart enough to tell a bad egg, until it's broken."

Plea for Natural History.

We content ourselves with a knowledge of the tongues, and a little skill in philology, or history, perhaps, and antiquity; and neglect that which to me seems more material, I mean natural history. I do not discommend or derogate from those other studies; I should betray mine own ignorance and weakness should I do so; I only wish they might not altogether jostle and exclude this. I wish that this might be brought in fashion among us.—John Ray (1691).

Takes No Chance on Bad Luck.
Many peoples believe that ill luck will be the portion of a child who cuts its upper teeth first, and there are one or two African tribes who so firmly believe this that in order to spare the child a life of misery, they promptly kill any child whose upper teeth appear first. Another tribe sees bad fortune for every one in twins and avoids it by slaying them all.

BAVARIAN COUP WAS A FLIVVER

Principals Imprisoned on High Treason Charge.

REICHSWEHR QUELLS REVOLT

Ludendorff Said to Have Surrendered Without Firing a Shot, While Hitler, Reported Wounded, Makes His Escape—Dictator Von Kahr of Bavaria Reasserts His Authority—Collapse of the Uprising.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—The Bavarian coup d'etat proved a "flivver."

Loyal reichswehr forces and the defection of Dictator Von Kahr, who reasserted his authority following his declaration that he only assented to the Ludendorff-Hitler program at the point of a pistol, broke the back of the revolution.

A late dispatch from Munich states that when a one-hour ultimatum was sent to Hitler and Ludendorff, barricaded with a few loyal Hitler storm troops in the war ministry building, Ludendorff refused to fire on his former comrades or direct the fire. He came out and gave himself up to the commander of two battalions of reichswehr about to storm the building. The Hitler army of more than 4,000, supposedly ready to die for him, has melted away. The resistance of the army was not great, only a few taking up the defense of the building. The reichswehr and police had two dead and about 10 wounded, and there were seven or eight casualties on Hitler's side. Hitler, though wounded, is said to have made his escape.

Following the reassertion of authority by Dictator Von Kahr, he ordered the arrest of all followers of Hitler, and decreed that the "party" must be dissolved. All the government buildings are now in the hands of Von Kahr and the loyal reichswehr.

General Von Seeckt, who was made virtual military dictator for Germany by President Ebert, issued a proclamation to the reichswehr in which he said: "I have been entrusted with executive power and am conscious of my responsibility to the people. I know I can depend with rock-like confidence on the German army and navy. There is no strife between the north and south. I will put down any coup from whatever side it arises and I ask all classes of people to loyally support the reichswehr."

Not only Germany, but Austria and Hungary were to be the scenes of nationalist revolts planned by Hitler and Ludendorff. That has been revealed in documents confiscated at Budapest, where three alleged co-conspirators with Hitler and Ludendorff were arrested. One of these documents was a regular treaty between the fascists of Bavaria and Hungary, according to which the Bavarians were to furnish troops, especially officers, for a nationalist revolt in Hungary in the middle of November, in return for Hungarian grain for Bavaria.

Several members of the Hitler organization have been arrested at Budapest.

SHIFTS TO BERLIN

Battle Raging For National Military Dictatorship.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—The battle for a national dictatorship has shifted to Berlin after the collapse of the man enterprise of General Ludendorff and Adolf Hitler at Munich. For the present the battle is along parliamentary lines, climaxed by two ultimatums to Chancellor Stresemann—one from his own party and one from the German nationalists—to get out, Stresemann has been given until tomorrow to decide. Stresemann's party (the German people's party) demands that they take the nationalists into the cabinet. The conditions of the nationalist ultimatum are that Stresemann must quit to make room for a nationalist government with Dr. Karl Helfferich, famous war finance minister, as chancellor.

Stresemann, however, is determined to fight to the last and by ignoring the ultimatums, to force a battle before the reichstag. The nationalists have openly proclaimed that they approve of Dictator Von Kahr of Bavaria and have full confidence in him.

CRABBE'S RULING

Boards of Education Not Responsible For School Bus Accidents.

Columbus, Nov. 10.—Attorney General Crabbe holds that boards of education are not liable for damages for injuries resulting to school children from accidents caused by the negligence of drivers of school motor buses. It is also cited that boards of education are not authorized to carry liability insurance to protect the boards and school children even though the law compels school children to be transported to school under certain conditions. In the latter connection, the opinion directs attention to the passage of a law authorizing boards to take out liability insurance, and its subsequent veto by the governor.

Famous Hudson River.

The entire length of the Hudson river is 300 miles. From Troy to the mouth of the river in New York bay, a distance of 150 miles, the river is tidal, owing to the low grade of its bed, by which the ocean tide is able to back up. It is this lower tidal portion of the Hudson that is of so much importance, and, of course, the water is salt. It is regarded as really an estuary of the sea. Above Albany and Troy the river is a small stream, and to its source the water is fresh.

GOOD CONCERT

Monday Club Well Pleased With Visit of Cecil Fanning.

About three hundred and fifty persons were present Friday evening at the Cecil Fanning concert and were immensely pleased with the artist. He possesses a wonderful baritone voice and was generous with his selections and encores. Mr. Fanning is not only a singer of note, but a composer of songs and verses. One of his numbers was his own poem entitled "The Bend in the Road." His poetic interpretations of his songs and poems is tinged with the fire of a born actor. He is a very cultured man and radiates intelligence. Circleville has not been treated to so splendid a program of music in years and it was thru the efforts of the Monday club that Mr. Fanning came to us. Mrs. J. G. Wilder was really the instigator of the attempt to bring some extraordinarily good artist to our town.

Mr. H. B. Turpin of Dayton, is his efficient and helpful accompanist and it was he who gave Mr. Fanning his first lessons.

Mrs. W. T. Ulm, the Monday club president, introduced Mr. Fanning. She and her club members desire to thank all for their most hearty support in this first concert attempt.

MASQUERADE

Logan Elm Grange Has Enjoyable Party—Prizes Awarded.

More than 300 members and friends of Logan Elm Grange met at the Pickway centralized school to hold a masquerade party on Monday night, November 5. About 185 were in costume. Those not masked tried to guess those in costume and Miss Ruth McKenzie secured the prize given to the one who guessed the most. The judges on costumes were Mrs. Marvin Dresbach, Mrs. Ralph Head and Mrs. Lewis Smith. Prizes were awarded to Millard McAfee—most hideous character, a skeleton; Mr. Evan Boggs, the best makeup, an Indian chief; Mrs. Charles A. Dresbach—most comical costume, old man with a cane, man's full suit. The lunch committee chairman, Miss Mary McKenzie, handled the crowd quickly and in a perfect manner. The lunch: salad, chipped ham, rolls, coffee was thoroly enjoyed.

GET IODINE IN SEA FOOD

Increased Consumption of Fish Will Lessen the Thyroid Disease, Doctors Claim.

According to a fisheries service bulletin of the Department of Agriculture, it has long been known that the proper functioning of the thyroid gland in man and animals is conditioned upon the presence of an adequate amount of iodine and that the lack of iodine is associated with disorders such as goiter, cretinism, etc. Iodine usually is administered in some form as a preventive or for treatment for thyroid enlargements, but as a general preventive of such troubles in a whole population it is recognized that some more generally applicable means must be found. Physiologists and physicians recently have called attention to the probability that sea foods might constitute an agreeable and convenient source of iodine for the public at large. If so, it would be necessary only to encourage the consumption of sea foods to prevent the thyroid troubles referred to.

In order to supply exact information on this subject an investigation of the iodine content of sea foods has been undertaken in the fishery products laboratory of the bureau of fisheries. The iodine in oysters, clams, lobsters, etc., several important species of food fishes from salt water and fresh water, and those that pass part of their lives in salt water and part in fresh is being determined quantitatively. Dr. Donald K. Tressler is conducting the investigation, which is expected to continue for two or three months. At present the only precise information available on the subject deals with species of fish found in Europe.

Primary Object is to Aid Disabled Ex-Service Men in County.

Does Not Seek to Duplicate Work of Other Organizations—Local Persons Will be in Charge of Home Service Work at Salary of Less Than $150 II

We wish to call the attention of people who do not know the origin of the Red Cross to the fact, that, on the 22d of August, 1864 at Geneva, Switzerland, forty-two nations, including the United States of America, ratified a treaty for the purpose of mitigating the evils inseparable from war. An association adopting and using the insignia of the Red Cross was formed in the city of Washington, District of Columbus. In July, 1881, known as "THE AMERICAN NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF THE RED CROSS," reincorporated April 17, 1893, under the laws of the District of Columbia, and reincorporated by act of congress in June, 1900. Quoting from the Congressional chapter.

"Whereas, it is believed that the importance of the work demands a repeal of the present charter and a reincorporation of the society under government supervision: Now, therefore, be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled: THAT CLARA BARTON, etc. (a list of sixty names), together with five other persons to be named by the president of the United States, one to be chosen from each of the departments of state, war, navy treasury and justice, their associations and successors, are hereby created a body corporate and politic in the District of Columbia." And we add here that the president of the United States is also the president of the American Red Cross.

Section Six of the Congressional Charter, reads as follows:

"That the said AMERICAN NATIONAL RED CROSS shall on the first day of January of each year make and transmit to the secretary of war a report of its proceedings for the preceding year, including a full, complete, itemized report of receipts and expenditures of whatever kind which report shall be duly audited by the WAR DEPARTMENT and a copy of said report shall be transmitted to congress by the WAR DEPARTMENT."

It might be of interest to the people of Pickaway county to know that after December 1, a local person will be in charge of the HOME SERVICE WORK in this county, and that the EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE of the PICKAWAY COUNTY CHAPTER who have the authority to hire the secretary, have no intention of paying a salary of $150 a month or more.

It is not the policy of the Red Cross to ever interfere with an organization which is established in a community, nor to duplicate the work which is already being done. We ask cooperation from all organizations thruout the county, because we are not a Circleville organization, but a county one, with our primary object being service to the disabled ex-service men.—American Red Cross.

Do not confuse the Red Cross with Anti-Tuberculosis Christmas Seal sale during December.

In Flanders Fields

The Appeal

Lieut. Col. John McCrea.

In Flanders fields the poppies grow
Between the crosses row on row.
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still, bravely singing fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, but now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to lift it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, tho' poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

The Promise

Charles B. Galbreath.

In Flanders fields the cannon boom
And fitful flashes light the gloom.
While up above, like eagles, fly
The fierce destroyers of the sky;
With stains the earth wherein you lie
Is redder than the poppy bloom,
In Flanders fields.

Sleep on ye brave. The shrieking
shell,
The quaking trench, the startled yell
The fury of the battle hell
Shall wake you not, for all is well.
Sleep peacefully, for all is well.

Your flaming torch aloft we bear,
With burning heart an oath we swear
To keep the faith, to fight it thru,
To crush the foe or sleep with you
In Flanders fields.

SLATE AND ROCK IN COAL

Pinchot Orders State Mine Chief to Proceed Against Operators.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 10.—Renewal of the policy committee of the anthracite coal operators to accede to Governor Pinchot's demands to "clean its own house of the abuses which are known to exist," led the executive to issue instructions to Secretary of Mines Joseph J. Walsh to take immediate steps to enforce the laws relating to excessive slate and rock in coal sold to consumers. "I am told that about 20 per cent of the coal shipped contains an unfair proportion of rock and slate," the governor wrote Chief Walsh. "If so its sale to the public is a rank imposition."

The conference with the anthracite operators was the final of a series which Governor Pinchot has held recently to get the operators to agree to a program that would bring about a reduction in the price of coal.

Zangwill Continues to Criticize.

New York, Nov. 10.—America is in the stage of her growth when she needs brickbats much more than bouquets, according to Israel Zangwill, the celebrated English novelist and playwright, who has industriously engaged in handing America the British raspberry for the last several days. "After all," he said, "I am not a diplomat, but an author, and it is an author's business to tell the truth. The truth about America is good and bad, of course, but my time here is short and I intend to devote it wholly to criticism."

COOLIDGE SEEKS ADVISE

On Legislative Program He Will Recommend to Congress.

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Coolidge is asking the advice of all Republican members of the senate and of the Republican leaders in the house on the general legislation program he will recommend to congress when it is convened in December. The president's message, which is scheduled to be delivered Tuesday, Dec. 4, the day after the opening session, if the possible fight over organization in both houses does not result in a tieup, is awaited probably with more interest than any similar document since the war. In the stand Mr. Coolidge will be forced to take on pressing international and domestic issues, he may make or break himself so far as the presidential nomination is concerned. His attitude on these questions is expected to supply the issues that will bring a number of opponents for the nomination into the field.

Delaware, O., Nov. 10.—A country-wide search for John Nevill Blair, 10-year-old Ohio Wesleyan freshman, strangely missing since Nov. 1, was launched here following the arrival from Oklahoma City of the young man's father, Frank T. Blair, real estate man of that city. Blair had $40 with him when he disappeared.

TO FIGHT BALDWIN PROTECTIVE POLICY

Lloyd George Says at London, He's in Fighting Trim.

London, Nov. 10.—Great crowds at Southampton and London greeted David Lloyd George on his return from America.

The former premier declared he was in fighting trim and forthwith announced that he would fight Premier Baldwin's protectionist policy and come out as a protagonist of free trade. He also made the important statement that he would serve under Asquith if the Liberals are returned to power at the next election.

Lloyd George declared himself immensely struck by the absence of military posts along the Canadian border, "a marvelous object lesson in what two nations can do if they allow good feeling, neighborliness and common sense to dominate their relations instead of anger, suspicion, envy, hatred and revenge." "That is what the British empire and the United States are going to teach the world," he said. "The resources of the two great commonwealths are infinite." He described America as a "great country of infinite abundance, with a virile, determined, resourceful population of great hearted people, worthy to occupy the land that yields more freely to the hand of man than any other country in the world."

POLICY UNCHANGED

Debts Owed America by Foreign Nations Must Be Paid.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The policy of the United States with reference to debts owed by foreign nations remains unchanged despite developments growing out of the Hughes-Curzon inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay. This was made plain in behalf of President Coolidge at the white house. The president feels that congress has made clear the American policy by establishing the world war foreign debt commission and laying down the procedure to be followed by debtor nations in settling their obligations.

WALTON ACCUSED

Political Favorites Maintained on Good Jobs, Witnesses Say.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 10.—Testimony relating to alleged expenditures of state money for the maintenance of political favorites on good jobs featured the impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton.

One of the witnesses, superintendent of a negro orphan's home, testified that the governor had directed him to place two Oklahoma City negro barbers on his staff as "bureau agents" at $125 per month, although the superintendent protested he had no funds to the credit of the institution and needed no help. Delinquent warrants were drawn to pay their salary, it was said.

Other testimony tended to show that scores of men had been put on state payrolls at Walton's express command, although there was nothing for them to do.

Found Guilty in Liquor Plot.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 10.—Albert Eick of Martins Ferry, O., head of the Belmont Products company, and S. K. Johnson, former Wheeling city treasurer, were found guilty by a jury in United States district court here on a charge of conspiracy to violate liquor laws. Harry Thornburg and John Hald of Martins Ferry were found not guilty. Ten men in all were indicted on a charge of bringing a car of alcohol to Wheeling from Tennessee.

Announcement of this gift has brought to public attention a man and an organization hitherto little known.

Dec. 3 was set as the date for a hearing.

Ironton, O., Nov. 10.—A coroner's inquiry is under way in an effort to fix responsibility for the motor bus accident in Russell, Ky., just across the river from here, that cost the lives of three persons and caused serious injuries to three others. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lansing of Lexington, Ky., and W. H. Clay, who resided between Charleston and Huntington, W. Va., were instantly killed. The bus was struck by a Chesapeake and Ohio train.

Election Irregularities Alleged.

Columbus, Nov. 10.—A delegation from Frankfort, Ross county, that complained to Secretary of State Brown concerning alleged irregularities in last Tuesday's election, was told to take its complaint to the Ross county board of elections, and to ask the Ross county prosecutor to make an investigation. Following the county action, if anything irregular is disclosed, the state will take a hand, Secretary Brown said.

MRS. STOKES WINS CASE

Jury Quickly Disposes of the Charge of Infidelity.

New York, Nov. 10.—The honor of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes has been vindicated after a five-year battle. A jury of her peers said "No" to the charges of infidelity brought against her by her millionaire husband. The jury was out an hour and seven minutes. As the issues in the case had been reduced to the one count of whether the defendant had been guilty of misconduct with Edgar T. Wallace in his apartment here, the jury's negative answer to that part of the interrogatory was the signal of defeat for the plaintiff. The jury took only one ballot.

Though the charges of misconduct against Mrs. Stokes have been disposed of, the courts are not yet through with the Stokes case. Isadore Shapiro of counsel for Mrs. Stokes announced that the separation action started by Mrs. Stokes against her husband was on the calendar in the special term of the supreme court for next Monday.

As she was preparing to leave the courtroom, Mrs. Stokes said that none but a mother's heart could know her joy and happiness. "A jury of American men," she said, "have looked into my heart and vindicated me of the charges brought against me by the man who in my trusting girlhood I believed would love and cherish me through life. But it is not for myself I cared. My happiness is for my children."

Fatal Explosion.

Wadsworth, O., Nov. 10.—One man was burned to death, two others probably were fatally injured, and two more burned seriously, as the result of an explosion in the superheating department of the boiler room of the Ohio Match company here. Mike Kazar, 40, was scalded to death. Donald Davison, 20, and William Brown, 40, are in a critical condition. The other two are expected to recover.

Je - sus' love is sweet - er, Sweet - er as the years go by.

At the close of one of our afternoon services, for women only, one of the so-called society leaders of the community approached the platform, with tears on her face, which she made no effort to conceal.

"I want you to pray for me," she said. "I have forgotten how to pray myself, I know, only that I need help, which no human hands can give me—that my broken life can only be mended by a power higher than that of men."

She looked at the workers in an anguish, whose sincerity could not be mistaken.

"I would like to tell you my story" she continued. "You have probably heard others like it before—of the mother who worshiped the things of the world for her children, above the blessing of God.

"It was not until I heard the words of the song, 'Sweeter as the Years Go By,' that I realized my life was doomed to be more and more bitter as time passes—because of my own sin and selfishness and because I put God in the background, and the world first.

"I married an ambitious man," she began, "whose only thought was to make a success that the world would applaud.

"He began to forge ahead in his profession, that of a lawyer and on my part I tried to arrange our domestic affairs to keep pace with him.

"Instead of instilling into my home and into my children the love of God before all other things, I made both my son and daughter as vain, in their youthful way, as I was.

"My daughter, I can see now, became fearfully self-conscious, and her only ambition in life was to show off her pretty frock to her companions and to be complimented on her style and good looks.

"My boy degenerated gradually into a prig, and I was actually proud of him, proud of his manners and the way in which he bowed whenever a lady entered the room.

"I thought his manners more important than his morals.

"And worse than all, I began to encourage my husband, who before this had been strictly temperate man, to have wine in his house for the benefit of his fashionable clients and even to serve it on our table.

"I might have known the result, had

I not been so blinded by the idols of the world.

Her voice broke at this point, and it was only in fitful periods that she was able to complete her narrative.

I will shorten it from the facts, which the worker later gathered in the community.

Edgar, that boy who was to be social success, is serving his time in prison. It will be years before he will be released. Florence, the beautiful, wayward girl who kept the tongues of the town wagging, has disappeared. Her mother wishes, tho that Florence were lying quietly in the family plot.

And the father, who was so brilliant who made so much money is one of the subjects of discussion over the dinner tables, for there is hardly a day when he cannot be seen, staggering thru the streets, still handsome, still well dressed, but undeniably drunk.

When the scandal of Edgar's forgery of his employer's name first came out the mother was confident that his father, the brilliant lawyer, could speedily clear him.

But the father did not clear the son. On the day when the trial was set, the father was too intoxicated to take charge of his son's case. Another lawyer was hastily called.

Edgar disliked the substitute attorney, and in full view of the courtroom and in the hearing of the judge, he cursed him, in a fit of the temper which his mother had never curbed. The judge in his charge to the jury said that the young man needed a lesson. They took the hint, and gave the boy a long sentence.

You would have thought that that would teach the mother her lesson, but it did not seem to do so. She went on with her entertainments and the set, who were her associates, went to them and Florence was allowed to flirt and to drink and to smoke, for those things were "fashionable!"

Pretty soon there was ugly gossip about the girl, but her mother would not listen to it. Florence, she said, did no more than any of the others of her circle.

She disappeared suddenly. She has never been found. Not a word has come from her, not a clew to her whereabouts has been discovered.

And at last the mother began to awaken to the real cause of it all.

"I was slipping down the road of fashion," she said. "Not only that, but I had dragged my husband, and my children with me. My husband had never taken a drink in his life until I told him that he ought to have wine for his guests and to drink with them.

"I ought to have known better than to encourage Edgar in thinking that money is everything worth living for. I ought to have known that no girl should be allowed the things in which I encouraged Florence. And my sin has found me out!"

There is not much comfort for the poor mother today. Friends are praying that her husband will find the strength of God which will stop him from drinking and for those two unfortunate children. For the son there is hope. The discipline of the prison and the influence of the chaplain there may prevail. But for the daughter—

It all began with the violation of the first commandment, when the mother put aside the one standard by which any life can be ruled, the rule of God.

First she worshipped ambition—then she worshipped "society," then it was money, more money and pleasure, until every other consideration in the world was laid aside, and nothing mattered except following the "fashions."

She said to the worker!—

"It makes me shudder, now, when I hear the girls, who used to be the friends of Florence, talking, laughing smoking cigarettes, drinking—and what they talk about and laugh over. It's the fashion for girls to smoke! It's the fashion for them to drink and to drink enough, sometimes, so that they are no longer mistresses of themselves.

"Oh, I can see, now that it is too late! A girl who still blushes is laughed at. No wonder my child fell. I encouraged her to develop nothing but worldly appetites, no one can know how I suffer—now!"

What she says is so true, so pathetically true!

It was the mother who had sinned first—and the fruits of her sin were visited on her thru those dearer to her than herself.

Her pathetic words as she finished her story, will never be forgotten by the sympathetic auditor, who heard them, and who tried to comfort the belated penitent.

"It wasn't until the words of that wonderful song penetrated my soul," she sobbed, "that I began to picture, almost for the first time, in all of its awful reality, my darkened home and saddened life, as the years go by.

"Instead of a peaceful, happy, contented home, worshipping God, we have a desolate house of bitter memories, serving the Lord in every way possible, we don't want to mention our children—and, when we do, it is with tears and blistering heart-aches.

"Instead of a husband, devoting his life to the kingdom, I have the bitter consciousness that my husband has become a drunkard, largely thru my own fault and blindness.

"I can see now that, in my mad pursuit of the idols of the world, I have missed completely that wonderful everlasting, all-satisfying peace of God which alone can make life sweeter as the years go by."

FARM FOR RENT.

Well improved farm of 85 acres, located in Washington township, Pickaway county, Ohio, within short distance of centralized school building. Inquire of Mrs. John Metzger, 344 East Mound street or Meeker Terwilliger, attorney, Circleville, Ohio. 5septwtfd&d2tawk.

GOOD ADVICE.

All that Circleville needs to start an industrial revival is for its citizens to forget self and join hands in a whole hearted movement in bolstering up industry.

If each person will forget petty personal jealousy, stop knocking and begin to boost in an effective manner the city can easily double its population in five years at the same time doubling the value of every foot of property in the city. Boost, don't knock.

"KLAN ON THE ROCKS"

Words of Founder Simmons, Who
Says He Will Form New Body.
Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10.—The Ku Klux
Klan is on the rocks, William Joseph
Simmons, founder and emperor of the organization, declared here.
Discussing events which split the klan into factions, one headed by himself and the other by Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans, culminating in the murder of W. S. Coburn, attorney for Simmons, by Phil E. Fox, publicity man for Evans, Simmons said:
"The klan ship is on the rocks. The physical organization may be torn down. But the cause must live; the soul of the movement must not be killed."
Simmons revealed that he plans a new organization with a nucleus of his following among the klan membership. He estimated 70 per cent of the klan members supported him and said he would call a meeting to launch his new movement shortly.
Simmons declared Evans had
usurped authority beyond his office.
"We have been headed for the rocks
since November, 1922," Simmons said. "The first split came over the organization of the Kamelia, the women of the klan, which Evans opposed.
I have withdrawn the call for the Kamelia and that part of the organization has been pigeonholed indefinitely."

Traits of the Grizzly.

The grizzly rarely hibernates, preferring to prow the forests in the winter months. He is a meat eater, as well as being fond of honey, roots and eggs,
and usually kills his own food. Two cubs come to the mother bear in her den among the rocks, and she is insensibly courageous in defense of them.

Giving in Service.

"Every woman, and every man, for that matter, should do something to justify her or his existence. Unless a woman gives as much as she takes in service she is a liability, and not an asset to the community."—Dr.
Esther Lovejoy.

Lake That Sharpens Razors.

One of the most curious lakes in the world is to be found in Ireland.

This lake has the power of petrifying any substance that may fall into it. Of course, the petrification is not absolute, but the substance is coated with a layer of stone, which is found dissolved in the lake, and the stone then hardens and forms a shell over the substance.

A well-known cutlery firm in England heard of this and sent a man over to inspect it. He selected several pieces of hardware, which he sank with weights, and then marked the place with small buoys.

A fortnight later he returned and took up two pieces of the wood, which he found to be partly petrified. Two weeks after he drew up the other pieces, and found each piece to be as hard as flint.

The firm then made several experiments with the wood and found that at a certain stage of petrification an excellent razor hone could be manufactured from it.—London Tit-Bits.

A GOOD WORK

Fred C. Clark Member of Society to Locate "Missing Persons."

A nation wide organization for the humane purpose of locating and identifying "missing persons" identifying the unknown dead and locating the relatives and friends has been formed. The bureau has grown very rapidly and its aim is to have an active member in every community in the United States.

G. H. Furbeck, vice president of the bureau has appointed Fred C. Clark of W. H. Albaugh Co., the local member for this community.

The local member will give information to anyone interested and will aid anyone (free of charge) in getting in touch with the bureau, if in need of its services.

Newspapers, churches, lodges, and benevolent societies all heartily endorse the purpose of the bureau and aid in this truly humanitarian work.

There is urgent need for just such an organization as many thousand persons become "missing" every year. Over 75,000 unidentified and unclaimed dead were buried in the "Potter's field" in the United States last year. The motto of this bureau is "For the Sake of Humanity."

The "master files" of the bureau—One, a list of the "missing" with all descriptions obtainable.

One, a list of unclaimed and unidentified dead, with descriptions and all information possible to aid identification.

We feel that Mr. Clark is to be commended for becoming a member of this bureau.

The work of this bureau and its wide spread membership can not but prove of inestimable service to many a sorrowing family.

LEGEND OF GOLD IN RHINE

Lorelei, Its Guardian, Dragged Down the Misers of Old to Their Doom.

According to the story, at the bottom of the Rhine was the vast Rhinegold, a treasure of incalculable richness. It glistened beneath the waters and the Lorelei were its guardians. Those crabbled masculine souls who prized the beauty of gold above the beauty of charming women, who preferred gold in metal to the golden skins and golden hair of the Lorelei, were dragged down to their fate.

The hair of the Lorelei was said to be spun of impossible fine strands of the golden store and the gold of their lovely cheeks was supposed to be a powder made of the mass of gold at the bottom of the stream, beaten by pebbles.

But this gold the miserly did not see, and their punishment was to see the treasure below them on the clear bottom of the river and becoming crazed with the sight of it, to try to dip their hands in it and fall in, lamented by nobody.—Detroit News.

Over the Fence Is Out.

A Scottish farmer was noted for his strength and skill. A young peer, a great pugilist amateur, had come from London to fight the athletic Scot. The latter was working in an inclosure a little distance from the house when the amateur arrived. His lordship tied his horse to a tree and addressed the farmer thus:

"Friend, I have heard a great deal about you and I have come a long way to see which of us is the better wrestler."

The Scotchman, without answering, seized the young man by the middle of his body, pitched him over the fence and returned to his work. When his lordship recovered his breath he stood silent.

"Well," said the farmer, "have you anything more to say to me?"

"No," was the reply, "but perhaps you'll be so good as to throw me my horse!"—Edinburgh Scotsman.

"Ain't That the Truth?"

FRENCH TERMS ARE REJECTED

Collapse of Hughes Plan Admitted at White House.

POINCARÉ SCORES VICTORY

American Government Adhered to Its Original Position That Any Reparations Inquiry Involving Uncle Sam's Participation Must Be Broad and Inclusive—Position of President Coolidge Outlined.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The United States rejected the French restriction limiting the proposed Hughes-Curzon inquiry into Germany's ability to pay during the next six years.

The American government adheres to its original position that any inquiry involving American participation must be broad and inclusive.

These declarations of the American stand were made in President Coolidge's behalf at the white house after the cabinet meeting. They left no room for doubt.

The official declaration at the state department was outlined as follows:

The secretary of state has informed the French ambassador that in the opinion of our government the limitations proposed by France would frustrate the purposes of the suggested inquiry by an economic conference. Any inquiry shackled by the restrictions demanded by Premier Poincaré, the president feels, would be useless and futile. There would be no use calling together the experts of four or five nations to determine Germany's present capacity to pay. That question, in the president's opinion, should be answered by any ordinary auditor.

With reference to the Poincaré restriction that the experts should not deal with Germany's capacity beyond 1930, the spokesman explained that there is no reason to expect that, within such a short time, Germany could re-establish industrial and productive activity.

The president's view was summarized officially in substance, as follows: Germany could hardly begin in such a short time to meet reparations to such an extent that it would be any use of inquiring into her capacity.

The white house declaration finally rejecting the Poincaré terms was made after strenuous efforts to prevent the formal burial of the Hughes-Curzon plan for American participation in the reparations controversy.

The collapse of the Hughes-Curzon scheme, forecast exclusively in these dispatches ten days ago, had been confessed in Washington with reluctance, and there was a tragic interest in the last obsequies.

The failure of Mr. Hughes and Lord Curzon to drive France into accepting their demand for a full inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay marks another victory for Premier Poincaré, who has never equivocated.

CAVE ARTISTS OF FRANCE

Student of Toulouse Makes Remarkable Discovery While Swimming in an Underground Stream.

A romantic discovery has just been made by a student of Toulouse university who swam along an underground stream for a mile with an electric torch in his hand, and found some relics believed to be at least 25,000 years old.

In the south of France and in Spain, and to a less extent elsewhere, drawings on bone, and modeling in clay, and painting on rocks have shown that 30,000 to 30,000 years ago men who lived in caves had the knack of representing, by a rude kind of art, the animals they knew.

They scratched on flat bones the outlines of reindeer, bison, mammoths and other animals, and painted them on the dry walls of caves; and it is interesting and important to know what other animals were roaming about Europe then, as it throws a light on the changes which have taken place in the climate.

The student of Toulouse university, Carteret by name, discovered what might be called the studio of an artist of the cave-dwelling period.

On the walls of the cave were rough drawings of animals, and around were models made in clay, some in the early stage of being shaped and others more fully formed.

Among the animals represented were lions, tigers, wolves and bears. This is the first time lions have been found among the animals known to the cave artists who once lived in France.

The animals of the prehistoric sculptor appear all to be wounded, and it is believed the hunters must have damaged the models before setting out on a hunting expedition, believing that the real animals vulnerable to their weapons.

HARTMAN THEATER

The first of the great metropolitan girl-and-music annuals to be seen in Columbus this season is the Greenwich Village Follies. The new fourth edition of this picturesque and refreshingly artistic revue will be on display at the Hartman theater Columbus for a single week starting Monday night, November 12. Last season it was conceded to be the revue hit of New York where it played for 32 weeks at the Shubert theater. For the past weeks it has been a soaring success at the Apollo theater, Chicago, and it comes to Columbus direct from that city in a special train of eight cars. Three of the Greenwich Village series have already exhibited in Columbus to enthusiastic audiences and this newest version is reputed to surpass all its predecessors in gaiety, wit, pictorial and melodic excellence.

The fine enthusiasm and youthful buoyancy which marks the deportment of the current "Follies" can be credited to the artistry and imaginative genius of its creator, John Murray Anderson. Anderson is said to have the best eye for color and grouping of any of our stage producers, a claim well substantiated in the present "Follies." A novelty constructed and adroitly schemed revue is this "Follies," with song, dance and japey interlaced in a happy and fleetly moving picture.

It burlesques Balleff and Chauve Souris, goes back to the days of Tony Pastor for a comic bout with the illustrated songs of that period ascends to high art in a reproduction of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and an interpretation of Oscar Wilde's "The Nightingale and the Rose," becomes precariously modern in a humorous sketch "Life Among the Advertisements," and all in all runs an amazingly long gamut of diversified entertainment.

Mr. Anderson has summoned an imposing list of players under his gay banner to compete in the "Follies." Prominent among them is Carl Randall, Karyl Norman, "The Creole Fashion Plate," Ula Sharon, George Rasely, John Sheehan, Dorothy Neville, Ethel Davis, Julia Silvers, Marjorie Peterson, George Christie, Louis and Frieda Berkoff, Fortunella and Cirillino, Clifton and DeRex and Chase and LaTour and the thirty famous artists' models.

The book of the "Follies" is by George V. Hobart, with contributions from George B. Kaufman and William K. Wells. The music is by Louis A. Hirsch and the lyrics by John Murray Anderson and Irving Caesar. Conspicuous among these last and well known are "Sixty Seconds Every Minute" and "Sweetheart Lane."

The Greenwich Village Follies is said to move with flawless pace and happy temp, flouting all the blueprints and traditions of the stage and providing ample recreation for the eye as well as regaling the ear.

Gearing Reversed.

I put a new rear axle in our car and wishing to take a ride I threw in the reverse gear to back out of the garage. To my surprise, the car started forward right toward the end wall of the garage. In putting the axle in I had got the driving gear on the wrong side of the drive shaft, so that it reversed the gearing.—Exchange.

AMUSEMENTS

If you feel thirty-eight years old, then you will look and act thirty-eight years old. This bit of logic is credited to Lois Wilson, motion picture actress. In her featured role in "Only 38," a William de Mille production for Paramount which also features May McAvoy, Elliott Dexter and George Fawcett and which comes to the Met theater next Monday for three days, Miss Wilson has to appear thirty-eight years of age. For the purpose she makes use of a remarkable makeup of sunken cheeks, gray hair, hopeless eyes and drooping shoulders with such additional touches that mark a woman of nearly two score years who has lost all hope of youth and romance.

"I have to play a lot on the set between scenes to keep myself young," declares Miss Wilson. "The psychological effect is tremendous. Each night, when I reach home, I put on the youngest and most cheerful clothes I possess. Otherwise, I fear I would grow years older during the production of 'Only 38.'"

Elliott Dexter plays the role of a college professor who finds Miss Wilson young despite her thirty-eight years. The picture is a comedy of character and is said to be one of the best William de Mille productions to date.

SEEK REDUCTION OF FREIGHT RATES

La Follette and Adherents to Hold Conference Soon.

WILL BOOST THE NORRIS BILL

Senators and Representatives From the Northwest Would Establish Prices of the Principal Agricultural Products—Railroad Legislation to Center Around Rate Revision, Leaders Say.

Washington, Nov. 10.—A general conference of the LaFollette "progressive" bloc in congress to map out a definite legislative program will be held at some time between Nov. 20 and Dec. 1.

According to Senator Frazier of North Dakota, one of this group on the Republican side, the formal bill will be issued by Senator LaFollette, who called the "progressive" conference held here last November.

The caucus will embrace Republicans, Democrats and Farmer-Labor members with leanings toward the principles advocated by LaFollette and his adherents. It will include several who did not participate in the conference last year, Frazier declared.

Among the Republicans he lists Senators Brookhart, Norris, Frazier, LaFollette, Howell, Ladd and Norbeck. Democrats include Senators Adams, Wheeler, Dill and possibly Mayfield. The two Farmer-Labor senators from Minnesota, Magnus Johnson and Shipstead, complete the senatorial list.

From the house there will be the entire Wisconsin Republican delegation of 10 members, with a number of single shooters from other states of the northwest. It is claimed there will be 30 to 50 house members included.

Agricultural and transportation legislation will receive major consideration. There will be a strong effort made to secure legislation to establish the prices of principal agricultural products, such as wheat, corn, cotton and live stock. Senator Frazier expects the caucus to get behind the Norris-Sinclair bill introduced in the last congress, or a similar measure.

Transportation legislation will center around rate revision, in Frazier's opinion. It will be insisted that freight rates on farm products must be reduced and that lower rates be provided on things the farmers must buy, particularly farm machinery.

Senator LaFollette, it is known, will issue a public statement within a few days. This statement will be his first since his return from Europe.

PORCELAIN MADE FOR KINGS

China Ware Was So Beautiful That It Was Never Exported, Was Reserved for Emperors.

The Arabs mentioned porcelain factories and stores in their writings about 800 A. D. The Arabian geographer, Mohammed-el-Idrisi, who lived in Sicily at the court of Roger II, published, about 1154, a geographic work in which he told of the town of Djankow, where "Chinese glass" was made. He added that there was "no finer and more esteemed profession in Djankow than that of a potmaker or a pot designer." Toward the middle of the fourteenth century, Ibn Batuta, the Arabian traveler, described Chinese ceramic as the most beautiful in the world. The Chinese manufactured dishes and porcelain ware for a very long time. In the history of the great Chinese empire one reads that only certain towns and villages went in for porcelain industry. The finest china-ware was made in the province of Saxi. It was so beautiful and so much like the finest crystal that it never was exported, but was exclusively reserved for the use of the Chinese emperors.

Lady Nicotine's Star Part.

Why leave Lady Nicotine out of the dramatic personae of the modern drama, when she plays such an important role? She figures large in the action and situations of comedy and tragedy, of farce and melodrama. She is the silent herald of deep thought to be uttered, of an epigram to be delivered.

She gives away the villain in the manner in which she goes up in smoke from his sneering lips. She helps the comedian put across his "stuff." She fills in gaps in action and in lines. She labels the beautiful woman who holds a cigarette between her pink fingers or red lips as a vamp or an adventuress. The male trifter would be nothing without her help, and the flapper might be mistaken for a sensible girl.

Lady Nicotine identifies them all. In some plays she has the star part. Why not put her name in the cast?—Washington Post.

Thomas Rowland, 73, was shot and killed at Pittsburgh by an unidentified negro. The slayer then attacked 11-year-old Edith Colter, Rowland's granddaughter, and then shot her. Her condition is critical.

Some Block System.

A man traveling in a train that had made several abrupt stops and sudden jerks, became a bit anxious. There had been numerous accidents on the line of late, so he had been told, and there was cause for fear. Calling the porter aside, he said: "George, is this train safe?"

"Safe as any, suh."

"Is there a block system on the road?"

George's grin extended from ear to ear.

"Block system, suh? Why, boss, we has de greatest block system in de world. Ten miles back we was blocked by a load of hay, six miles back we was blocked by a cow, and I reckon when we gets farther south we'll be blocked by an alligator. Block system, suh? Well, I'll say it is!"—Country Gentleman.

That Was Different.

O'Halloran rushed up to a cottage, shouting: "Lend me a spade! Lend me a spade!"

"What for?" asked the owner of the cabin.

"To dig my friend out of the bog," replied O'Halloran. "He's just fallen in and he's up to his ankles!"

"Up to his ankles!" replied the other. "Then you don't need a spade. I'll lend you a rope."

"Begorrah, but a rope's no good," replied the would-be rescuer. "He couldn't catch hold of it!"

"Why not?"

"For several reasons," replied O'Halloran; "but the chief one is that he went in head first."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Protected From Witches.

A bride and bridegroom in olden days used to be protected from the evil influence of warlocks and witches by using gray horses to pull the bridal carriage. To be lucky, they should not be married in a month the name of which contains the letter "A." Further, none of the wedding guests should be dressed in black or green. They will be unfortunate if the engagement ring has contained either opals or emeralds.

Hotel Stenographer BY ROE FULKERSON

"Seems like I never get no place," gloomed the House Detective.

"Kelly, replied the Hotel Stenographer, "it is funny, the number of people in the world who have never found out that all the setting in the world will never hatch a bad egg."

"Life is just full of ups and downs, Kelly, full of attempts to keep expenses down and keep appearances up. But you can do what you want to, if you only want to do it. A lot of other guys Kelly sit around and wish something would happen; they haven't got the guts to get out and make it happen."

"Benjamin Franklin said that if wishes were automobiles, everybody would have a fliover."

"Now just look at me, Kelly. Nobody needs a better example of hustling than I am. I worked in the five-and-ten cent; then I was hat check girl here and instead of sitting around wishing I had a better job, I went to night school and learned to make pothooks and dashes. Now I take dictation from some of the snappiest drummers on the road. I knock out 35 to 50 books a week and I am right proud of myself."

"Any time you need a good example Kelly, you just stroll around and give me the up-and-down and I will try and drop a few words of encouragement your way, and tell you how good I am, and how worthless you are. Maybe some day you will get so mad you will get out and do something you are proud enough of to brag about it. So far, tho, Kelly, I can't see much prospect. You are a poor egg."

"Is that so?" snapped Kelly. "You may be smart, but not smart enough to tell a bad egg, until it's broken."

"Plea for Natural History.

We content ourselves with a knowledge of the tongues, and a little skill in philology, or history, perhaps, and antiquity; and neglect that which to me seems more material. I mean natural history. I do not discount or derogate from those other studies; I should betray mine own ignorance and weakness should I do so; I only wish they might not altogether jostle and exclude this. I wish that this might be brought in fashion among us.—John Ray (1691).

"Now just look at me, Kelly. Nobody needs a better example of hustling than I am. I worked in the five-and-ten cent; then I was hat check girl here and instead of sitting around wishing I had a better job, I went to night school and learned to make pothooks and dashes. Now I take dictation from some of the snappiest drummers on the road. I knock out 35 to 50 books a week and I am right proud of myself."

"Any time you need a good example Kelly, you just stroll around and give me the up-and-down and I will try and drop a few words of encouragement your way, and tell you how good I am, and how worthless you are. Maybe some day you will get so mad you will get out and do something you are proud enough of to brag about it. So far, tho, Kelly, I can't see much prospect. You are a poor egg."

"Is that so?" snapped Kelly. "You may be smart, but not smart enough to tell a bad egg, until it's broken."

Many peoples believe that ill luck will be the portion of a child who cuts its upper teeth first, and there are one or two African tribes who so firmly believe this that in order to spare the child a life of misery, they promptly kill any child whose upper teeth appear first. BAVARIAN COUP WAS A FLIVVER

Principals Imprisoned on High Treason Charge.

REICHSWEHR QUELLS REVOLT

Ludendorff Said to Have Surrendered Without Firing a Shot, While Hitler, Reported Wounded, Makes His Escape—Dictator Von Kahr of Bavaria Reasserts His Authority—Collapse of the Uprising.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—The Bavarian coup d'etat proved a "flivver."

Loyal reichswehr forces and the defection of Dictator Von Kahr, who reasserted his authority following his declaration that he only assented to the Ludendorff-Hitler program at the point of a pistol, broke the back of the revolution.

A late dispatch from Munich states that when a one-hour ultimatum was sent to Hitler and Ludendorff, barricaded with a few loyal Hitler storm troops in the war ministry building, Ludendorff refused to fire on his former comrades or direct the fire. He came out and gave himself up to the commander of two battalions of reichswehr about to storm the building. The Hitler army of more than 4,000, supposedly ready to die for him, has melted away. The resistance of the army was not great, only a few taking up the defense of the building. The reichswehr and police had two dead and about 10 wounded, and there were seven or eight casualties on Hitler's side. Hitler, though wounded, is said to have made his escape.

Following the reassertion of authority by Dictator Von Kahr, he ordered the arrest of all followers of Hitler, and decreed that the "party" must be dissolved. All the government buildings are now in the hands of Von Kahr and the loyal reichswehr.

General Von Seeckt, who was made virtual military dictator for Germany by President Ebert, issued a proclamation to the reichswehr in which he said: "I have been entrusted with executive power and am conscious of my responsibility to the people. I know I can depend with rock-like confidence on the German army and navy. There is no strife between the north and south. I will put down any coup from whatever side it arises and I ask all classes of people to loyally support the reichswehr."

Not only Germany, but Austria and Hungary were to be the scenes of nationalist revolts planned by Hitler and Ludendorff. That has been revealed in documents confiscated at Budapest, where three alleged co-conspirators with Hitler and Ludendorff were arrested. One of these documents was a regular treaty between the fascists of Bavaria and Hungary, according to which the Bavarians were to furnish troops, especially officers, for a nationalist revolt in Hungary in the middle of November, in return for Hungarian grain for Bavaria.

Several members of the Hitler organization have been arrested at Budapest.

SHIFTS TO BERLIN

Battle Raging For National Military Dictatorship.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—The battle for a national dictatorship has shifted to Berlin after the collapse of the man enterprise of General Ludendorff and Adolf Hitler at Munich. For the present the battle is along parliamentary lines, climaxed by two ultimatums to Chancellor Stresemann—one from his own party and one from the German nationalists—to get out, Stresemann has been given until tomorrow to decide. Stresemann's party (the German people's party) demands that they take the nationalists into the cabinet. The conditions of the nationalist ultimatum are that Stresemann must quit to make room for a nationalist government with Dr. Karl Helfferich, famous war finance minister, as chancellor.

Stresemann, however, is determined to fight to the last and by ignoring the ultimatums, to force a battle before the reichstag. The nationalists have openly proclaimed that they approve of Dictator Von Kahr of Bavaria and have full confidence in him.

CRABBE'S RULING

Boards of Education Not Responsible For School Bus Accidents.

Columbus, Nov. 10.—Attorney General Crabbe holds that boards of education are not liable for damages for injuries resulting to school children from accidents caused by the negligence of drivers of school motor buses. It is also cited that boards of education are not authorized to carry liability insurance to protect the boards and school children even though the law compels school children to be transported to school under certain conditions. In the latter connection, the opinion directs attention to the passage of a law authorizing boards to take out liability insurance, and its subsequent veto by the governor.

Potatoes' Food Value. Potatoes differ widely in food value. It is shown that the most useful for food is the one with the largest amount of dry matter. When two varieties are practically equal in this respect the nitrogen they contain enters into the estimation of their feeding quality.

Famous Hudson River.

The entire length of the Hudson river is 300 miles. From Troy to the mouth of the river in New York bay, a distance of 150 miles, the river is tidal, owing to the low grade of its bed, by which the ocean tide is able to back up. It is this lower tidal portion of the Hudson that is of so much importance, and of course, the water is salt. It is regarded as being an estuary of the sea. Above Albany and Troy the river is a small stream, and to its source the water is fresh.

GOOD CONCERT

Monday Club Well Pleased With Visit of Cecil Fanning.

About three hundred and fifty persons were present Friday evening at the Cecil Fanning concert and were immensely pleased with the artist. He possesses a wonderful baritone voice and was generous with his selections and encores. Mr. Fanning is not only a singer of note, but a composer of songs and verses. One of his numbers was his own poem entitled "The Bend in the Road." His poetic interpretations of his songs and poems is tinged with the fire of a born actor. He is a very cultured man and radiates intelligence. Circleville has not been treated to so splendid a program of music in years and it was thru the efforts of the Monday club that Mr. Fanning came to us. Mrs. J. G. Wilder was really the instigator of the attempt to bring some extraordinarily good artist to our town.

Mr. H. B. Turpin of Dayton, is his efficient and helpful accompanist and it was he who gave Mr. Fanning his first lessons.

Mrs. W. T. Ulm, the Monday club president, introduced Mr. Fanning. She and her club members desire to thank all for their most hearty support in this first concert attempt.

MASQUERADE

Logan Elm Grange Has Enjoyable Party—Prizes Awarded.

More than 300 members and friends of Logan Elm Grange met at the Pickway centralized school to hold a masquerade party on Monday night, November 5. About 185 were in costume. Those not masked tried to guess those in costume and Miss Ruth McKenzie secured the prize given to the one who guessed the most. The judges on costumes were Mrs. Marvin Dresbach, Mrs. Ralph Head and Mrs. Lewis Smith. Prizes were awarded to Millard McAfee—most hideous character, a skeleton; Mr. Evan Boggs, the best makeup, an Indian chief; Mrs. Charles A. Dresbach—most comical costume, old man with a cane, man's full suit. The lunch committee chairman, Miss Mary McKenzie, handled the crowd quickly and in a perfect manner. The lunch; salad, chipped ham, rolls, coffee was thoroughly enjoyed.

GET IODINE IN SEA FOOD

Increased Consumption of Fish Will Lessen the Thyroid Disease, Doctors Claim.

According to a fisheries service bulletin of the Department of Agriculture, it has long been known that the proper functioning of the thyroid gland in man and animals is conditioned upon the presence of an adequate amount of iodine and that the lack of iodine is associated with disorders such as goiter, cretinism, etc. Iodine usually is administered in some form as a preventive of or treatment for thyroid enlargements, but as a general preventive of such troubles in a whole population it is recognized that some more generally applicable means must be found. Physiologists and physicians recently have called attention to the probability that sea foods might constitute an agreeable and convenient source of iodine for the public at large. If so, it would be necessary only to encourage the consumption of sea foods to prevent the thyroid troubles referred to.

In order to supply exact information on this subject an investigation of the iodine content of sea foods has been undertaken in the fishery products laboratory of the bureau of fisheries. The iodine in oysters, clams, lobsters, etc., several important species of food fishes from salt water and fresh water, and those that pass part of their lives in salt water and part in fresh is being determined quantitatively. Dr. Donald K. Tressler is conducting the investigation, which is expected to continue for two or three months. At present the only precise information available on the subject deals with species of fish found in Europe.

Primary Object is to Aid Disabled Ex-Service Men in County.

Does Not Seek to Duplicate Work of Other Organizations—Local Persons Will be in Charge of Home Service Work at Salary of Less Than $150 II

We wish to call the attention of people who do not know the origin of the Red Cross to the fact, that, on the 22d of August, 1864 at Geneva, Switzerland, forty-two nations, including the United States of America, ratified a treaty for the purpose of mitigating the evils inseparable from war. An association adopting and using the insignia of the Red Cross was formed in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, in July, 1881, known as "THE AMERICAN NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF THE RED CROSS," reincorporated April 17, 1893, under the laws of the District of Columbia, and reincorporated by act of congress in June, 1900. Quoting from the Congressional chapter,

"Whereas, it is believed that the importance of the work demands a repeal of the present charter and a reincorporation of the society under government supervision: Now, therefore, be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled: THAT CLARA BARTON, etc. (a list of sixty names), together with five other persons to be named by the president of the United States, one to be chosen from each of the departments of state, war, navy treasury and justice, their associations and successors, are hereby created a body corporate and politic in the District of Columbia." And we add here that the president of the United States is also the president of the American Red Cross.

Section Six of the Congressional Charter, reads as follows:

"That the said AMERICAN NATIONAL RED CROSS shall on the first day of January of each year make and transmit to the secretary of war a report of its proceedings for the preceding year, including a full, complete, itemized report of receipts and expenditures of whatever kind which report shall be duly audited by the WAR DEPARTMENT, and a copy of said report shall be transmitted to congress by the WAR DEPARTMENT."

It might be of interest to the people of Pickaway county to know that after December 1, a local person will be in charge of the HOME SERVICE WORK in this county, and that the EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE of the PICKAWAY COUNTY CHAPTER who have the authority to hire the secretary, have no intention of paying a salary of $150 a month or more.

It is not the policy of the Red Cross to ever interfere with an organization which is established in a community, nor to duplicate the work which is already being done. We ask cooperation from all organizations thruout the county, because we are not a Circleville organization, but a county one, with our primary object being service to the disabled ex-service men.—American Red Cross.

Do not confuse the Red Cross with Anti-Tuberculosis Christmas Seal sale during December.
